

City shows interest in proposed golf course

By Lynne Locke

Upland City Council Monday night expressed interest in construction of a golf course adjacent to Cable Airport but declined to take an active part in securing the facility.

Planning consultant Owen Menard told the council a nine-hole executive golf course could make $75,000 per year profit and noted the estimate profit is "very conservative." City Councilman Bill Bottin had requested the city study a possible golf course.

He said the project would have to include a high-value residential development in order to be worth developing by private interests.

Menard said information for his preliminary study was provided by Dan Murray who was involved in a proposed golf course on the Upland site several years ago and is presently developing a golf course and 400 residential units in La Verne.

Council members indicated interest in a golf course that would make money for the city but only Bottin seemed ready to initiate the project.

He noted the area adjacent to Cable Airport has been a continuing problem to the city and will be an additional problem as the area is developed. Bottin proposed taking the "initiative now to offset problems" before they happen.

Objections by other council members ranged from commitments to already planned recreational and residential development to the problems of city government becoming a residential developer.

Mayor George Gibson and Councilwoman Ina Petokas noted the proposed golf course would require some of the green-belt land presently planned for a softball field as well as grass and picnic areas.

The girls' softball group is already raising funds to develop the diamond, Gibson said and added, "I don't know where we would put them" if the golf course took the field area.

Councilwoman Petokas said providing another site for the softball field would require spending additional money beyond the $880,000 estimated for purchasing land and constructing the golf course.

"We're pretty much committed" to Paul Nordberg's planned residential development as well as to development of the green-belt park, Mayor pro tem John McCarthy said and noted the city would need a financial feasibility study before planning a golf course.

"I don't see the city going full-bore on a golf course and housing development," Councilman Hal Bailin commented and added the project "begins to sound like private enterprise."

He said the city would have to work with private industry to create the golf course and residential development and added the council should wait for a private group to present a "responsible put together" plan rather than initiating the project.

Menard estimated construction of a nine-hole course, driving range, clubhouse and restaurant would cost $250,000 with site acquisition set at approximately $630,000.

The golf course would require 45 acres and the residential development another 45-60 acres. Costs would be paid off within 20-25 years, he reported.

An 18-hole golf course would not be "cash-register feasible" because it would cost twice as much to construct and take more than 25 years to pay off, Menard said.

In other action Monday night the council:

— Awarded an $8,808 contract for installation of pumping equipment at an Upland well to Pump Sales and Service Co. of Pomona.

— Appropriated a total of $5,070 for a runoff channel, larger inlet pipe, and a drip strip for the 17th Street reservoir. The runoff channel is required by San Bernardino County to avoid flood problems on the property south of the reservoir.

The larger inlet pipe will allow Upland to purchase imported water in the future. The drip strip will prevent roof rain runoff from staining the sides of the reservoir.

Councilman Bill Bottin commented the drip strip should have been included in the original design and suggested the city recover the added cost from Engineering - Science Inc., which designed the reservoir.

— Approved an ordinance to double the fees for building dwelling units. The fees, approximately $290 for a four-bedroom house, are used to purchase and develop park sites in the city.

— Approved a zone change from agricultural to single-family residential with a minimum lot size of 15,000 square feet for 10 acres northeast of Euclid Avenue and 19th Street. A portion of the land falls within the right-of-way of the proposed Foothill Freeway.

— Allowed Joseph Coulson to withdraw an appeal of a Planning Commission decision prohibiting a private elementary school at the southwest corner of Sultana Avenue and Seventh Street. Coulson plans to resubmit the project which has been opposed by adjacent residents and businesses.

Girls running out of things to do

Candy Bradley and Carrie McAleavey are lucky to be graduating into Cadette Girl Scouts this spring. The two members of Upland Troop Junior Girl Scout Troop 1177 are running out of things to do.

Candy has earned all 47 badges available to Junior Girl Scouts with Carrie not far behind.

"We've really kept them busy," commented Mrs. David Bradley, coleader of the 16-member troop which will increase to 22 members when Brownies "fly up" to Junior Girl Scouts this spring.

Candy, who is a sixth-grader at Cabrillo School, particularly enjoyed earning badges in the fields of outdoors and homemaking. Her favorites were Hospitality, Troop Camper, Gypsy, Foot Traveler, Sewing and Cooking.

The last badge she earned was Writer, and she liked it the least "because I don't like writing that much."

In addition to the 47 badges, which took three years to earn, Candy holds the Sign of the Arrow and the Sign of the Star and has served as troop treasurer and patrol leader.

Her favorite Girl Scout activities are games, refreshments, hikes and going camping except "when it's cold." One campout ended with troop members wearing "four days worth of clothes" so they would be warm enough to sleep.

The troop, led by Mrs. Harold Gillingham, also created and earned a "troop's own" badge in bowling. The scouts designed the patch, and decided the badge's requirements.

Besides earning all the Junior badges, Candy has been involved in the Olympian Baton Corps and is

County gets $2.3 million for youth jobs program

San Bernardino County Supervisor Robert O. Townsend of the Fourth District has announced that the Inland Manpower Association (I.M.A.) has been authorized $2,321,707 for the 1976 Summer Program for Economically Disadvantaged Youth.

Townsend, vice chairman of the executive board for I.M.A., said San Bernardino County will receive $1,346,590, or 58 per cent of the allocation, while Riverside County will receive $975,117, or 42 per cent.

The supervisor pointed out that this year's allocation represents a significant increase from last year's $1,886,397.

He also noted that the allocation has been approved substantially earlier this year, enabling the program to begin without the delays previously experienced while awaiting receipt of funding.

In addition, I.M.A. has more than $180,000 left from last year's program which can be used this summer. The program will provide summer employment for disadvantaged youths 14 to 21 years of age. Minimum hourly wage for participants has been increased to $2.30 per hour.

Townsend said he has been assured the program will involve at least as many youths as last year.

Thespian skits, fun

Members of the Alta Loma High School Thespian Troupe will present "He Ain't Done Right by Nell," a melodrama, on May 14, to the students at Los Amigos Junior High School, Cucamonga, and at the Claremont Parks and Recreation Children's Festival on May 21, 22.

The play is double cast so that actors may play alternate performances. The one-act play will be given along with pantomime skits.

Veterans offered tests

Local veterans will have a chance to receive free job guidance and skill assessment for one week when the Purple Heart Veterans Rehabilitation Services mobile evaluation unit is stationed in Ontario from May 10 to 14.

The unit contains 16 work stations, which will offer a wide range of testing for veterans. The tests to be administered at the stations are designed to evaluate skills which apply in more than 1,000 different jobs.

Occupational testing offered includes welding; bench assembly; heating and air conditioning; data processing; carpentry; masonry; baking; sewing; drafting; plumbing; sheet metal; small engine repair; basic tools; medical records; electrical wiring and clerical skills.

The evaluation unit is part of a special effort to help unemployed or underemployed veterans — especially the handicapped. The unit is also geared to help Vietnam veterans.

One of three touring California this year, the unit is funded by the U.S. Department of Labor's Veterans Employment Service, and the California Employment Development Department. The service is coordinated by the local veterans employment representatives, Mrs. Myers and Bernie Scoville.

The unit will be stationed in the parking lot of the California Employment Development Department, 1000 W. Fourth St., Ontario. Veteran evaluation services will be conducted from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily during the week.

The unit will also be open for viewing by the public from 3 to 5 p.m. May 10. Local businessmen, teachers and vocational counselors are invited to attend the open house, where staff members will be available to answer questions.

The appearance of the unit coincides with "Hire a Veteran Week," May 2 to 8.

Further information on the unit or its services may be obtained by calling the California Department of Employment Development at 986-3811.

Neault top swimmer for locals

David Neault of Mt. Baldy Aquatics led teammates during the Southern Pacific Assn. AAU Junior Olympic championships held at Santa Monica High School recently.

The 12-year-old Montclair youngster placed near the top in all three of his events — finishing second in the 500-yard freestyle (5:30.1), third in the 50 backstroke (30.5) and fourth (1:05.9) in the 100 back.

Jennifer Weck, 9-year-old Uplander, showed well in 9-10 competition as she placed tenth in the 100 back (1:19.6), 12th in the 50 back (37.6) and qualified 13th in the 100 individual medley (1:21.1).

Claremont's Christine Morandi (12) swam to a 36.5 in the 50 breaststroke, good for a 13th place award.

Older age-group Junior Olympics were swum at East Los Angeles College, site of the recent CIF triumphs of two Mt. Baldy swimmers — Dave Oakes and Mike Harbottle.

Both have qualified for All-America consideration and placed well in their specialties at the Jo's.

Oakes earned the fifth place medal as he dropped six seconds from his previous best to clock a 2:00 breaststroke time of 2:16.6 in a close finish.

Harbottle swam a quick 21.6 in the prelims and finished with 22.1 in the finals, good for fifth in the 50-free.

Other participating swimmers from the young club were Chris Ryan, Suzie Williams and Karin Givens.

Mt. Baldy Aquatics holds novice and AAU team workouts daily at Upland High School, El Roble Junior High School, Pendleton and CMC pools in Claremont.

Interested area swimmers may call Dolores Weck (982-3430) or Carolyn Easton (987-2887).

Health News...

Doctor, Can You Cure My Migraine Headache?

By Dr. W. P. Helzer, D.C.

I've been hearing the above question or statements just like it for as long as I've been a Doctor. I suppose all doctors hear such inquiries.

But I'll tell you one thing: Beware of Bargains in life preservers and parachutes.

I have always wondered how a practitioner can actually come right out and say he can cure something.

By all professional and ethical standards a doctor is surely remiss if he claims to be able to cure anything. Yet, it's apparent that persons afflicted with distressing problems do, in fact, expect literal cure when they seek the doctor's care.

I guess you can say the word cure has been stricken from our vocabulary. We speak rather of the permanent removal of the cause of a problem, or effective solution or of a significant return to health. But I think that in every sense of the word, cure implies a total eradication of the health disturbance with a consequent, absolute return to perfect health.

And I think that ability should only be attributed to God.

Of course, a good doctor addresses himself to a problem with the view that the problem will be totally removed. You must recognize that there is a difference between what one thinks and what one says in this regard. Frankly, I am leery of anyone who claims to be able to cure anything.

Actions speak for themselves and therefore if a doctor were to claim cures he would be in a sense, trying to talk his patients into believing in his power so that he would not have to effectively demonstrate his ability.

You'll find an odd situation often involving these cure claimers. It always seems they claim they can get the job done quicker and at less cost.

Yet, it stands to reason that total cure would either take longer or be worth a much higher fee if it were simply a matter of snap judgment or snapped fingers.

I am convinced that the ingredients that make up the solution of a health problem are careful and accurate diagnosis, proper and effective treatment, and patient understanding and cooperation.

Bargain-like speed would render the first two requisites impossible and the talk of a quick cure would render the third impossible.

Note: Dr. Helzer maintains chiropractic offices at 108 East H Street, Ontario, telephone: 983-1711. (C) ARS 1975

Humane Association salute

By Robert L. Stear, D.V.M.
Manager of Veterinary Services
Norden Laboratories

Every year at this time, the American Humane Association sponsors "Be Kind to Animals Week." It's a good time, I think, to salute the association's many achievements and to review its ongoing animal care programs.

The American Humane Association will celebrate a century of service next year. During the past 99 years, the AHA has worked to prevent cruel treatment of animals in human custody and to see that they are not deprived of their basic needs.

The AHA has led campaigns for inspection, regulation, legislation and enforcement. These campaigns have resulted in the growth of veterinary services, rabies control in pet animals and wildlife, humane transportation and slaughter of food animals, and pet animal population control programs.

Consultative services to motion pictures and television producers are also provided by the AHA during the filming of animal action. Additionally, the AHA provides inspection services for zoos, circuses, horse shows and rodeos. And once each year, the AHA awards prizes to animals whose antics are directed on television or in film. Lassie, Pyewacket the cat (from "Bell, Book and Candle") and Trigger the horse are among the long listing of PATSY (Performing Animal Television Star of the Year) award winners. These awards help to call public attention to the value of kindness toward animals.

In many communities across the country, there is a growing cooperation between veterinarians and humane organizations. By working part or full-time in an animal shelter, these veterinarians help solve problems that involve the community's overall animal population. They help direct programs of nutrition, sanitation, isolation and vaccination. And since most of the animals entering the shelter have unknown health histories, the veterinarian makes a careful examination of the pets for parasites, inherited abnormalities, and signs of infectious disease.

Both the AHA and the veterinarians who work with the association are particularly concerned with the pet population explosion. The AHA has calculated that one female dog, under ideal conditions, can be responsible for the birth of nearly 500 female dogs in a five-year period if each litter produces two females. If, on the other hand, each female produces three females per litter, the end result in five years is close to 5,000 females. These are startling figures when we consider that any community with a human population of 50,000 might have from 100 to 300 stray female dogs within its boundaries on any given day. Kindness, benevolence and compassion are important aspects of the humane movement. But so are all the animal health care aspects. Across the country, thousands of dogs and cats suffer needlessly each year because of the problem of overpopulation alone. Some strays roam city streets in constant danger of being injured or of starving to death. And they're a public nuisance, besides.

"Pets Need Responsible Owners" is the theme of this year's "Be Kind to Animals Week," and it's a good one to remember all year. I join the AHA in reminding you to keep your pets safe — at home or under your close control — at all times.

Backyard salads

Your salad can be as fresh as a short walk to the backyard. Put in some cool season vegetables now in time for a late spring harvest. Lettuce plants started in greenhouses are easy to grow and take less time from start to finish than plants you grow from seed. Plant lettuce and radishes in succession to lengthen the harvest time.

Now's a good time to put in green peppers and chives to live up your salads. Harvest home grown peppers when green, or let them ripen to a rich red color. They're delicious and sweet!

To save room in the vegetable garden for the warm season crops such as corn, squash, and beans, plant the cool season salad crops in containers on the patio. That way, you'll be able to make the best use of the space you've set aside for summer use. When the cool season is over, plant the containers that you grew your lettuce in with egg plant, peppers, or tomatoes.

Prevent soil insect invasion

With more than half of all U.S. households (51 per cent) expected to have some form of vegetable garden in 1976, according to a Gallup Survey, preventive measures against soil insects will become more essential. Successful vegetable gardens for new and experienced home gardeners. If you have not tried the preplant soil application method, this is the year to do so.

A broadcast treatment is very effective when applied to the surface of the soil just prior to planting a number of the more common vegetables. These vegetables include carrots, corn, lettuce, peas, red beets, snap beans, tomatoes, turnips and cabbage.

Always follow the manufacturer's label directions carefully. For root maggots on cabbage, mix with enough water to achieve thorough coverage, using the rate of 4.5 fl. oz. per 1,000 square feet. Immediately work into the soil 3-4 inches.

For garden centipedes, use 3 fl. oz. per 200 sq. ft.

Living With Your Heart

Warning for women

By Glean A. Langer, M.D., President American Heart Association, Great Los Angeles Affiliate

High blood pressure afflicts 23 million Americans - about one in 10. Nearly half this amount are women.

If you are a woman, you should be aware of some important clues that may help you deal with this disease.

For instance, medical science has determined that taking contraceptive pills is associated with high blood pressure in some women. This is especially true if the woman is overweight, has a mild kidney ailment, a family history of high blood pressure, or had high blood pressure during pregnancy. It is advisable to ask your physician to measure your blood pressure before prescribing the pill, and then to have your blood pressure checked every six months or so.

A physician usually keeps a close watch on a woman's blood pressure during pregnancy. This is because some women who have never had high blood pressure may develop it rapidly during this period. However, it can disappear after delivery.

For those women who already have high blood pressure, pregnancy may make their condition even more serious.

While a woman may have had normal blood pressure most of her life, her chances of developing high blood pressure increase considerably after menopause. As she grows older, her chances of having this disease become greater than a man's.

Black women - even very young black women - are much more prone to high blood pressure than white women. Science does not yet have the reason for this but it is a fact. Not only is the disease more common among black women but it often tends to be more serious.

High blood pressure is no longer a disease to be feared, yet neither sex should ignore it. There are now many effective medications which can be used to reduce and control this condition, and a medical program can be worked out by the physician that is suited to individual needs. In addition, low-fat and low-salt diets are often prescribed. And changes in living habits, including rest and recreation, are sometimes recommended depending upon the person's condition. In fact, the treatment plan is easier to follow than most people think. By following the physician's instructions, patients have hope. They know the physician is doing something to prolong their life and to reduce their risk of stroke, heart attack, kidney failure and congestive heart failure.

Most patients with high blood pressure have no unusual symptoms. Statistics from the American Heart Association show that one half of the 23 million who have it, are unaware of their condition. Of those who do know they have it, half are untreated.

Persistent headaches, fatigue and tension might possibly be telltale signs, but these symptoms are also common in our general population and could result from a variety of causes. Patients may also suffer from dizziness and from shortness of breath resulting from the additional work imposed upon their hearts by extended, elevated blood pressure.

A word of caution is necessary here in that what you may think are symptoms of this disease may have nothing at all to do with your blood pressure. They may be due to other causes, including anxiety and emotional tension. Don't try to diagnose or treat symptoms yourself. See your doctor.

May is National High Blood Pressure Month and the American Heart

Association has informative pamphlets to help you find out what high blood pressure is, what it can do to you and your body, and how you can control it. If you're a woman, you may also wish to ask for their special literature on "What Every Woman Should Know About High Blood Pressure." Write or call the American Heart Association, Greater Los Angeles Affiliate, 2405 West Eighth St., Los Angeles, CA 90067; (213) 385-4231, and request your free copies.

"There will be an occasion for presentation of reports by women of today in our midst who are meeting in Forums of Wholeness to develop a 'People's Platform for a Global Society.' A Woman Ought to Know

Sex discrimination?

Dear Anita,

Our women's club had a speaker the other day who kept talking about a new national law against sex discrimination in schools. What was she referring to?

Dear S.L.,
She was no doubt talking about Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, which says, "No person shall, on the basis of sex, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any education program or activity receiving federal financial assistance."

Virtually every school in the country is affected, from kindergartens through graduate schools, since it's hard to find schools that do not receive some form of federal money or aid.

Most public attention so far on Title IX seems to be centered on athletics, but that's only one part of the concern with eliminating sex discrimination in our schools. Curriculum, extracurricular activities, scholarships and financial aid, counseling, staffing and pension benefits are some of the other areas affected directly by Title IX.

Each school district makes its own plans for complying with these federal regulations. You might want to check with the schools in your own community to see what action is underway.

Anita Miller

Dear Anita,

I know that many laws have been changed the last few years to make things more equal for women. Mostly, I think that's fine. What worries me are the protective regulations that are being wiped out. Aren't women workers losers on this?

B.J., San Francisco

Dear B.J.,

You've put your finger on a sensitive spot; the issue of protective regulations in employment is controversial, and arouses strong feelings.

Historically, protective regulations have applied only to women workers; they covered such areas as over-time work, over-time pay, rest breaks, working conditions, weight lifting, etc. The impression was that these protections were humanitarian, and women were better off for having them.

However, some years ago women workers themselves began taking a long, hard look at their "protections."

They discovered that in all too many cases, what they were most protected from were advancements into better-paying jobs.

The regulatory red tape functioned as a marvelous "excuse" for not putting women into situations where the employers or others concerned would have to make special efforts to prove compliance.

Women workers themselves helped to move a bill through the California legislature which gives the California Industrial Welfare Commission the authority to regulate wages and working conditions for men, in addition to women and minors. Implementation of the new law was delayed through a variety of tactics; however, new regulations are expected soon.

The United States Supreme Court last month ruled that any protective labor provisions must apply to both sexes equally. Even though this is still a hotly argued question, the weight seems to be with those who say that "protections" actually denied women jobs and made it more difficult for them to earn a living.

Anita Miller

Dear Anita,

With all the changes that have come about for women lately, do you notice any change in the number women going into business for themselves?

N.D., Oxnard

Dear N.D.,

Yes, indeed, the number of women who are starting their own businesses is increasing year by year, especially here in California.

The U.S. Small Business Administration, which makes loans for starting businesses, reports an increase in just the past year, with 9 per cent of their loans going to women a year ago, and 10.5 per cent this year.

The SBA reports that half the attendees at its workshops on going into business are women, up from 15 per cent a year ago.

Even though the increase is undeniable, the total percentage of businesses owned by women remains small, only a little over 4 per cent. The outlook is good, however. Conferences which give women information they need to start businesses are being held all over the country, with one scheduled for Los Angeles in the middle of May.

The State of California is making a real effort to identify women-owned businesses, so that they may compete for a fair share of the business of the state.

We have also seen reports which indicate that women who are not sole owners of businesses, but are in some form of partnership, are playing much more active roles in management decision.

Make your own mask for a facial to treat dry or normal skin with inexpensive, natural products you have right in the kitchen. Mix 1/4 cup corn starch with one egg white and about two tablespoons' milk, enough to make a smooth consistency. Cleanse your face and neck with soap. Follow with a thorough rinse. Pat dry. Then apply a thin layer of facial mixture to both face and neck. With facial mask on, relax about 15 minutes while the mask sets. Rinse with clear, tepid water and pat dry.

Actress recreates stage role

Bernice Massi, who captivated Broadway audiences as "Aldonza" in the long-running, award-winning musical hit, "Man of La Mancha," will be recreating her role in the San Bernardino Civic Light Opera production when it opens on May 7th.

"Man of La Mancha," starring Broadway's Bob Wright as "Cervantes" and "Don Quixote," opens for a limited engagement, May 7 through May 15 at the California Theatre of Performing Arts in San Bernardino.

Described by critics as a "young, beautiful Ethel Merman," Miss Massi gained stardom on Broadway as the "poor little rich girl" in Richard Rodgers' musical, "No Strings," and went on to win critical acclaim in "What Makes Sammy Run?," starring Steve Lawrence.

Miss Massi began her career in minor roles on Broadway and on television and later played leading roles in such stage hits as "Destry Rides Again," "The Women," and "Oliver."

"Man of La Mancha," which won the coveted New York Drama Critics Award as best musical of 1966, is based on the literary masterpiece, "Don Quixote," by Miguel de Cervantes. The story is a sort of dream sequence in which Cervantes imagines himself to be Don Quixote, who endeavors unsuccessfully to cure the ills of the world.

Tickets for "Man of La Mancha" are now on sale and can be purchased at the Civic Light Opera Box Office, 2079 N. E. St., San Bernardino; all Mutual Agencies; all Wallichs and Liberty Ticket Agencies; and the following agencies: Chamber of Commerce, Ontario; Chamber of Commerce, Fontana; and Kaiser Recreation Center, Fontana.

Stage review

Comedy lights up VCT

By Doug Riddle
Saturday night, waiting in the hot and airless lobby of the Valley Community Theater (VCT) for the "Man of La Mancha" to begin, I nearly dozed off. That was the last chance I had to do so.

Once professional-sounding orchestra under the direction of Dena Carper began the familiar themes of the overture, I was captured. There is no question in my mind that if you make it down before VCT finishes the "Man of La Mancha" you will also be captivated.

This is a strikingly well-cast, well-directed production. A few "bright lights" in combination with sterling ensemble work has yielded a brilliant production; one which is undoubtedly among the best community theater in Southern California.

How did they do it? Well, to begin with, Wasserman's adaptation of Cervantes' turn of the century novel (turn of the 17th century) is a delight. All the humor and irony which characterizes Don Quixote has been retained, even if the Inquisition has lost its terror-value for most of us.

Next, somebody took a whole flock of talented and energetic actors and actresses and put them in the hands of director Annette Roon. With some creative costuming, and a set which passes very well for a 16th century dungeon, they had the beginnings of a great production.

Of course, all that is pretty useless unless a certain magic takes place in the interaction. The theater is not any one of the persons who do the work, or even the total of them all. It is a dynamic company blessed with a suitable vehicle and a production staff whose hearts are in what they're doing; and it becomes much more than the sum of its parts. VCT's "Man of La Mancha" is clearly one of those three-blessed productions.

The story finds the poet-tax collector-dreamer Miguel de Cervantes (Ed Waterhouse) being thrown into prison with his friend and companion, Sancho Panza (David Bushner). He has run afoul of the Inquisition.

The denizens of the dungeon immediately set about claiming his belongings for themselves, including his manuscript. In an effort to regain it, he offers to provide an entertainment in his defense before a court of the prisoners. Everyone is to take a part in this charade, which is the story of Don Quixote, the knight of the Woeful Countenance.

Ed Waterhouse is masterful in his portrait of Cervantes-Quixote, the poet from La Mancha who believes that "facts are the enemies of truth," and that there is more to life than what the "realists" would have us think.

His puffery is more than balanced by the charming complacency of David Bushner's tough and tender Sancho Panza. He is the ultimate side-kick, who is not compelled as much by the vision which draws his old friend onward, as he is by the loyalty he feels toward his friend. When Aldonza (Lynda Hershey) says to him, "It doesn't make any sense," he reveals, "That's because you're not a squire." Of course, it doesn't really make any more sense to Sancho than it does to Aldonza, but he knows the inner truth: here in the crazy vision of his dehydrated poet is a reality which is more powerful than all of the realities of the church (represented with a beautiful irony of the Padre, Tom Schultz) or of learning (the Doctor, believably but not very strongly played by Clint Miller), or even of the society at large.

Society at large has three parts, and they are also balanced to perfection. The roughneck mule drivers, the middle class inn-keeper and his wife, and the upper crust family of Quijana each have a vision of what life is, and each of them conflicts with the dream of Don Quixote.

None of them, however, conflicts with the power and violence which are evoked by the clash of Don Quixote's vision and Aldonza's reality. Quixote wishes to "add some measure of grace to the world," but to Aldonza that world "is a dang heap, and we are maggots on it."

Hershey, as Aldonza, is a standout. The stage is very much hers, but her virtuosity strains the ensemble. Her presence on stage tends to throw the other players into shadow by virtue of the sheer intensity of her portrayal.

Just as Quixote's vision is able to transform the scullery queen, Aldonza, into Dulcinea, the lady, so is Hershey able to transform the rather two-dimensional character of Cervantes' story into a vital and believable woman.

Don't miss this one. You'll love all of it, even the barber's green tongue. "Man of La Mancha" is playing Fridays and Saturdays 8:30 p.m. at the VCT, 132 E. Third, Pomona, until June 26. Call 622-6954 for reservations.

Pilgrim Place festival

A refurbished "Mayflower-on-wheels" will carry guests along the winding roads of Pilgrim Place, Claremont's 61-year-old religious and cultural center where 300 retired Christian workers make their homes, May 8 and 9 at 2:30 p.m.

Guests will see historical exhibits, demonstrations, a short program and tea. The theme of the 9th Annual International Arts Festival, sponsored by the Friends of Pilgrim Place, is "Pilgrim Place in the Bicentennial." Hundreds of visitors are expected for this event that is open to the public free of charge.

They will see, as they ride or walk along the picturesque streets, tri-color signs in front of each house that list the succession of residents since construction, giving dates of residence and countries of origin. Also eye-catching will be metal signs decorated with tri-color streamers on selected trees along the route that give popular and scientific names for Pilgrim Place's many varieties of trees.

Exhibits of quilts and other early Americana, "Show and Tell" by residents who have loaned historic memorabilia to the show and an old-fashioned tea party with a short parade of styles of the past 60 years will be continuous from 2:30 to 5 p.m. both days.

Stopping at colonial-style "Hadley House" on Alden Road, guests may see an exhibit of early American furniture while hearing the tenor voice of Enrico Caruso from the horn of an old-style tubular gramophone.

At Decker Hall at 2:45 and 3:45 each afternoon there will be a short dramatization of Pilgrim Place history that reveals the relation of Pilgrim Place to the Claremont Colleges and early Claremont history. First called "The Claremont Missionary Home" and located on the present site of Scripps College, the Christian workers' retirement colony was moved to its present location in 1925.

"The Friends of Pilgrim Place" sponsoring this event is an organization of community leaders bent on "bringing to public attention the artistic, cultural and historical talents and treasures of the far-traveled residents."

Mrs. Roy G. Miller of Claremont is president of the Friends. Mrs. Richard B. Peterson is director of exhibits and Miss Lavinia Scott is general festival chairman. Dr. Dwight C. Smith has written the 20-minute historical narration. Mrs. Margaret Woodard is tea chairman. Mrs. Gilbert A. Hanke Jr. and Mrs. Stanley Larson are co-chairman of hospitality and Mrs. Raymond Soper, director of the style parade. Dr. Williston Wirt is captain of the Mayflower-on-wheels.

The residents of Pilgrim Place have come from missionary work in 25 countries and the work of the ministry and religious teaching, the YWCA and YMCA, in nearly every state of the union.

Calico Ghost Town Spring Festival

Banjo contest featured

Pickin' and fiddlin' will be the order of the day at Calico Ghost Town during its Fourth Annual Spring Festival Friday through Sunday.

Fiddle, banjo, mandolin, guitar and group performers from throughout Southern California will provide bluegrass musical entertainment as they compete for a variety of prizes at the celebration's Fiddle and Banjo Contest.

The Ghost Town's Silver Bowl will be contested in five separate competition categories. Beginning fiddle, mandolin, banjo, guitar and group performers will compete all day Saturday. Advanced performers in the same categories will compete at the same location on Sunday.

A special run-off will take place both days for the top three performers in each category to determine first, second and third place awards. The beginners run-off will be held at 3:30 p.m. Saturday and the advanced performers will vie for top honors beginning at 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

The competition is free to enter and contestants may register in as many categories as they wish. Trophies, ribbons and prizes will be given away as prizes to the winners. Only acoustical instruments will be allowed in the contest.

Zen Crook, Gary Crook and Craig Smith will judge the contestants on their pitch, timing, harmony and clarity of performance. Calimesa's Zen Crook and his son Gary are popular figures in local bluegrass circles. Among their many musical triumphs are first place finishes in recent Idyllwild and Calico competitions. Smith, a resident of San Bernardino, is also a former prize winner at the same two festivals. In addition, he has finished in the money at the Topanga Banjo and Fiddle Contest.

The concert's lead-off performers will be the 12th Street Ragtime Band from Orange County. This group is comprised of Anaheim's Brian McElroy on piano, and Alan Bartky of Fullerton who plays the washboard. This is the third straight year they have played at Calico. The band has appeared throughout Southern California.

The Riverside Citrus Belters Barbershop Chorus will then perform. Comprised of 100 members, the Citrus Belters are known throughout the state for their expertise in close barbershop harmony. Tom Farrington, president of the Riverside group, said the group's members have spent more than a year preparing a historical Bicentennial concert, parts of which will be featured at Calico. Among the songs to be performed are "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," "Dixie," and "Yankee Doodle."

After a short intermission, the bluegrass and country-western groups will take over the Silver Bowl stage.

First up will be the "Desert Breeze," a country-gospel group from Victorville. This youthful band consists of two 15-year old boys and a 14-year old girl lead-singer. The Desert Breeze has made a number of Southern California appearances, including a performance for Governor Jerry Brown.

John Corzine, a quiet "country-ballad" singer, will follow the Desert Breeze. Corzine is from Santa Ana. His mother backs him up on the guitar.

Rounding out the evening will be "The Lost Highway." Comprised of five members from San Bernardino, the group has performed at the Crafton Hills Folk Festival and the Idyllwild Bluegrass Festival. In addition, they are former first-place finishers in Calico's fiddle and banjo competition.

Pie tables will be located throughout town for those musically inclined individuals who do not wish to enter the contest, but would enjoy playing three tunes for a free pie.

Other free weekend activities include the egg tossing contest, the greased pole climb and the Bucket Brigade.

A special added attraction of this year's festival is Saturday evening's "hootenanny," to be held at the reviewing stand on Main Street beginning at 8:30 p.m. "The Lost Highway" and "Sneezeweed," two popular San Bernardino bluegrass groups will perform, in addition to musically inclined members of the audience.

A restored silver mining boom town of the 1880's, Calico is now a San Bernardino County Regional Park located 10 miles northeast of Barstow, just off I-15.

For more information about the Spring Festival contact the Regional Parks Department, (714) 383-1912.

Wilderness area

SAN BERNARDINO — Wilderness permits for the San Geronimo Wilderness Area on the San Bernardino National Forest can only be obtained 30 days in advance of a planned trip. This is a change from the 1975 season when permits were available up to 60 days in advance.

The primary reason for this change is to reduce the number of "no shows."

Classical French comedy to be given

"Tartuffe," Moliere's classical French comedy that has played before audiences for more than 300 years, gets its latest interpretation May 7, 8, 13, 14 and 15 at the University of California, Riverside.

The 17th Century commentary on hypocrisy and false piety will be given full costume treatment in University Theatre each evening beginning at 8:15.

UCR Theatre Department instructor Richard Risso, who played the title role two years ago at the Pacific Conservatory of the Performing Arts, is directing the production. Graduate student John Greenleaf, of Escondido, will portray Tartuffe.

The play received its first production before King Louis XIV and his court in Versailles in 1664, but there was such an uproar over its suspected attacks on religion that for the next five years "Tartuffe" was kept from public exposure.

What followed, however, was popular success for France's greatest comic dramatist.

William T. Sutherland, of Oakland, will play Orgon, the benefactor deceived by Greenleaf's Tartuffe. Orgon's wife will be portrayed by Marte Boyle Slout of Alton, Ill., his daughter by Cheryl Perkins of Riverside, his duped mother by Colleen Perkins of Riverside and his son by Gerard Deleuw of Montclair.

The only characters in the play who recognize what a rogue Tartuffe is — Orgon's brother — in — law and his housemaid — will be played by Joseph Gilday of Del Mar, N.Y., and Pam Creager of Indio.

Others in the cast include Lynn Gustadt of San Rafael, Kevin Bash of Norco, John Keepers of Pomona, Robert Lonsinger of Victorville, and Jon Andrews and Paul Fitzsimmons of Riverside. Tickets are on sale at the UCR Commons Desk.
